

ONE MONTH TO LIVE

Dear Friends:

I was so glad that someone pointed out to me that the email I sent out yesterday incorrectly stated that we have begun “The One Life to Live” journey. Oops! Major title mistake. One Month to Live is the 30-day journey we are taking together as a church: March 7th to April 6th. To the one who made me aware of the wrong title: seriously, thank you, others probably saw it, you are the one who helped me save face in the future!

The overarching question is: “What are you going to do with the dash of your life?” You know, the dash on grave headstones that indicates years of life, i.e., 1950-2025. We should not fear death, but we should have a healthy fear of living 60, 70, 80+ years and not really living. More specifically, not living in a way that leaves a godly legacy. Living a holy life, leading people to Christ, training people in the Bible, being a prayer warrior, serving God in the local church, and ethically known as someone who is not a compromiser of the Bible. Oh... it can be so easy to compromise but so hard to stop!

Your time on earth is limited. With each tick of the clock a moment of your life is behind you. Mortality is the great equalizer to all. Make the priority changes you need to make now. You (and I) may only have one month to live!

In Christ’s Love,

Pastor Mike
